SMALL BRANCH FLOODS STREETS

Traffic is Impeded in Vicinity of Sexton and Seventh by High Water.

I. & C. STOPPED FOR FEW HOURS

Pedestrians and Passengers Carried Across Water on Handcars and Hacks—Colder Tonight.

With the dangers of a flood impending, the weather man comes forward today with a varied lot of weather. The temperature is expected to drop considerably tonight and rain or snow is predicted. It depends on how great the drop in temperature is as to whether the "weather" will be snow or rain.

This morning the thermometer registered fifty degrees above zero. Today the temperature dropped several degrees and it was expected to go as low as twenty degrees above by tomorrow. The weather bureau promises that there will be no snow storm
of extreme violence at this time, however.

It is thought that the drop in temperature will check to a great extent
the enormous flow of water that is emptying into rivers and into small streams and causing many to be overflowed. Flatrock was out of its banks today and Hodge's branch
which passes along the northern edge of the city is higher than it has ever been in the memory of people who have lived near the branch for a quarter of a century.

Water from the overflowing branch
flowed down Sexton street to Seventh and flooded Seventh street as far as the Big Four railroad. This made passage of I. & C. cars in Seventh street between Sexton and the Big Four railroad impossible. The traction company provided hacks to haul the women passengers and what
men who did not choose to "work
their way" across the expanse of water. The handcars were used to transfer baggage.

The water lowered fast and the I.
& C. was able to establish traffic by eleven o'clock. It was impossible to operate the cars through the water
when it was very deep. At seven o'clock this morning the water was four feet deep. This morning it was impossible for people living north and northwest of Hodge's branch to get to the city. Draymen and hack drivers "coined" money for a little while hauling pedestrians across the "pond." Dray loads of school children were hauled through the water
so that they could get to school on time.

Flatrock was higher today than it

Watson Pumps Handcar

James E. Watson was a passenger on the I. & C. dispatch which was held up in Seventh street this morning by the high water. Passengers were transferred across the expanse
of water in hacks and handcars were pressed into service to haul baggage
across to the car which was waiting on the western "bank" to carry the passengers on to Indianapolis. James E. Watson essayed to harden his muscle a little and chose a handcar
as a means of arriving at the other side. He insisted on pumping the handcar and that privilege was gladly allowed him. He pumped and puffed and finally succeeded in getting the handcar through the two blocks of water. A number of spectators gathered to watch the former congressman exert himself, all expecting him
to "give up the ship" in the middle of the "pond" and turn over the work
to one more accustomed to it.

has been for many years. Practically all of the river bottoms were covered with water and in many places
water from the river stretched clear to the race. The water began to recede this afternoon.

Fears of a flood were dispelled to some extent with promises of dropping temperature. This is expected to stop the rising waters. A flood at this time was not expected to be very disastrous as it is reported by the weather bureau that streams are comparatively free of ice, thus minimizing the danger of ice gorges being formed. But if a severe freeze comes now there is danger of a flood of greater proportions from a second thaw.

About the last trace of the blizzard
of last week was removed yesterday
and today by the rain and thawing as a result of high temperature. The gutters were filled with slush yesterday and some sidewalks and crossings were almost impassable. Little patches of snow are all that remain
of the heavy fall of last week.

FUNERAL HELD AT MANILLA

Last Sad Rites Performed Over Body
of Ben Rozell.

The funeral services of Ben T. Ro-zell, who died at his home in Shelby-ville Friday night of double pneumonia, were held at Manilla Sunday
afternoon at two o'clock, the Rev.
James L. Brown being in charge.
Mr. Rozell's death was rather unexpected as he had been sick only a few days. His condition was not considered critical until a few hours before his demise. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Robert Shook and Mrs.
M. E. Parrish of Manilla, and one brother, Tobe Rozell of Indianapolis.
Burial was made in the Manilla cemetery.

CONNERSVILLE IS AFTER EXTENTION

City East of Here is Not Asleep on the Job and is up and Doing.

TO ADVISE WITH PRES. HENRY

The directors of the Commercial club met at the club's apartments and held council concerning several things
of great consequence to the people,
says the Connersville News.

The I. & C. extension was also considered at length, and it was unanimously agreed that the Commercial club should advise President Henry that it would use its influence to the limit to the end of securing a free right-of-way for the company in
any direction in which it might see fit
to extend the line from Connersville.
No definite action will be taken at this time but the matter will be brought to Mr. Henry's attention
whenever the time seems most oppor-
tune.

At a meeting to be held this week
arrangements will be perfected for another banquet, which it was decided to hold at an early date. This affair will be given with a clear-cut
and important aim, aside from its social value. What this aim is specially to be, and how it is to be conserved, will alike be given out after the next meeting is held.

GLOVE COMPANY IS PROSPERING

Local Concern Has Offer of Contract
to Make 400 Dozen Gloves a Day For 3 Years.

75 MORE GIRLS ARE NEEDED

Will Ascertain if Help Can be Obtained Here to Merit Taking of Job.

Elsewhere in this issue appears an advertisement of the Rushville Glove Company that will come as a surprise
to the majority of Rushville people who are not familiar with the rapid progress and growth being made by this concern.

They now have an offer of a contract with one firm alone for 400 dozen gloves a day for a period of three years that will necessitate the employment of about 75 extra girls to take care of this one order alone.
This means much to many families in Rushville and along the traction line,
as there is but little demand for female labor in Rush county except as is given in this one concern. The object of the advertisement at this time is to find out conclusively as to whether this help can be found here
in sufficient number to make the above addition and still leave plenty
of prospects to take care of the business which is already established.

In a talk with one of the officers
today, it develops that they have sold
now for fall delivery over three times
the amount of goods that they had sold on the same day last year.

It will be recalled that a short time ago, an issue of $10,000.00 of preferred stock was placed on the market. The larger part of this was subscribed and from all outward signs the entire issue will be subscribed for by the last day of the present month as the stock has proven very popular due to the provisions of the law for the protection of such shareholders and to the fact that this stock pays six per cent cumulative dividends and is tax-exempt.

It is to be hoped that the company
will have no trouble in securing the needed help and that the next few years will find them with the largest number of employes in Rushville and a pay-roll that will measure second to none in the city.

NO CHANCE FOR GINGS.

At the court held in Gings Saturday by a member of the State railroad commission to ascertain whether there is need of a Pennsylvania station, the people of that place were apprised by a representative of the commission that the commission can not compel the railroad to build a station and establish an agent there because there is less than one hundred inhabitants in the town. The representative of the commission promised, however, to use what influence he could to cause the railroad
to act according to the wishes of Gings people.

MISTAKE IN DATE.

It was erroneously stated in an advertisement Saturday that Robbins Brothers sale of trotting horses
would be held in Greensburg February 20. The date should have been Tuesday, February 27.

HIGH WATER AT RIVERSIDE.

Several trainers were compelled to move their horses and equipment
from Riverside park this afternoon,
due to the high water. Several fast horses were lodged in Hiner's barn for the night. The water is fast spreading over the bottoms in the vicinity of the driving park and it is likely all
the horses will have to be taken out if
the water does not recede.

CORDIA MARTIN BREAKS JAIL

New Palestine Bank Robber Escapes
From Greenfield Prison by Aid of Friend.

OFFICERS FAIL TO FIND HIM

Special Venire Had Been Drawn and
His Trial Was to Have Started Today.

Cordia Martin, once convicted of robbing the New Palestine bank, on December 29, 1910, escaped from the Greenfield jail yesterday morning
where he was being held pending a new hearing which was to have started this morning. Sheriff Bebout received word from Greenfield Sunday morning to the effect that Martin had escaped and spent most of the day
around the depots looking for him but without success. Martin is still at large.

This is the second time Martin has escaped from the Greenfield jail. Two years ago, Martin, Van Deery and Dan Williams were arrested for robbing a Greenfield store. Martin and Williams escaped and were captured
by Sheriff Bebout on the Big Four bridge near Milroy.

Martin was in the jail after midnight Sunday morning when the Greenfield authorities placed two drunks in and helped put them to bed
but appeared to be nervous. The sheriff, Jesse Cox, and wife, were sleeping within about fifteen feet of
where the prisoner passed out.

For the past two days a man giving his name as Tucker and stating he was an attorney from Indianapolis
has been calling on Henry Martin,
the convict's father. He has spent some time at the Greenfield hotels,
but has never registered at the jail.
Martin explained his visit by stating that he was a man who cleaned and pressed clothes and lived in Knightstown.

Martin was convicted in Marion county and sentenced to ten years for the robbery of the New Palestine
bank more than a year ago, but was returned to Hancock county and was granted a new trial because the crime was committed in Hancock county and his trial took place in Marion county.

Martin, Deery and Williams were held for the New Palestine bank robbery. Deery confessed and was sentenced in Marion county for two to fourteen years. He implicated
Martin and a man named Williams.
Later Martin stood trial and was sentenced. Williams, however, was never brought to trial until about one month ago, when Martin was brought back to testify and was granted a new trial.

It was upon Martin's testimony
that Williams was given one to fourteen years, and he admitted being implicated in the local affair, but would say nothing in regard to the bank robbery for which his trial was
to begin today.

A special venire of fifty men had been drawn for the jury and Williams
and Deery were to arrive in Greenfield today from Jeffersonville to testify.

INSULATION BURNED OFF

Caused Fire Bell to Ring Incessantly
This Morning.

Many residents of the city were startled and aroused from their sleep
this morning about one o'clock by the ringing of the fire bell. No box number rang and no number was recorded at headquarters. The insulation was burned off a wire in North Perkins street and it came in contact with a tree causing a ground. The electrical display was brilliant and caused considerable alarm among those who saw
it. The bell rang probably five minutes.

PLAN TO EFFECT AN ORGANIZATION

Township High School Professors of County Will Meet For That Purpose Saturday.

52 TAKE TEACHERS' EXAM.

The township high school professors of Rush county will meet with C.
M. George, County superintendent, at his offices in the court house Saturday to effect a permanent organization. The high school instructors will discuss subjects and problems of interest to them and will arrange for regular meetings in the future. By an organization they hope to work
more effectively for the good of the high schools of the county.

The county board of education,
composed of the township trustees
and the county superintendent, will meet with C. M. George in the court house next Monday, or one week from today. It was announced erroneously that the meeting would be held Saturday.

An examination for teachers was held in the court house Saturday and fifty-two applicants wrote.

JUDGE BLAIR HEARS ARGUMENT ALL DAY

Partition Suit of George W. Coon et al. Against Hickson S. Stevens
is up in Court.

BLACKMON-McCANN NOT TRIED

Argument in the partition suit of George W. Coon and others against Hickson S. Stevens occupied the time of the Rush circuit court today. The argument of all the attorneys in the case was not closed until this afternoon at three o'clock. The evidence in the case was heard last Tuesday.
The partition suit is a very complicated affair and harks back several years to the construction of two different wills.

The case of James Hinchman
against George W. Sweet on a note was settled the first thing in court today. The court returned judgment for the defendant in the sum of $261.85 on principal and interest and allowed $18 for attorneys' fees which made a total judgment of $279.85.

The case of Blackmon against Mc-Cann for damages, alleged by Blackmon to be due him for the alienation
of his wife's affections, was continued in court today. The case was set down for trial today, but the defendant was granted a continuance on the plea that his attorney, J. Q.
Thomas was ill in bed.

DEBT ENGLISH OWE MISSIONS

The Rev. C. M. Yocum Traced History of Civilization of Race by Christianity.

FIRST COUSIN TO THE HINDU

Pleads For Those Who Have Not
Been so Fortunate—New Angle
on Missions.

"The Debt of the English Speaking People to Missions" was the subject
on which the Rev. Cyrus Yocum preached at the Main Street Christian church yesterday morning. Since missions is a question that is little understood, at least that part of it
which is related to the origin of the English race, the subject was considered very timely, especially in view of the angle from which it was taken by the Rev. Mr. Yocum.

The Rev. Mr. Yocum said at the opening of his sermon:

"The appeal in behalf of missions is usually made to man's charitable inclinations or disposition. The missionary cause is classed with benevolence, 'Ye that are strong ought to bear the infirmity of the weak,' is quoted as authority for a missionary plea.

"The plea is often made also in the name of God-given duty. Christ said, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.' We ought to go in obedience to that command for He is clothed with authority.

"President Taft and Ambassador Bryce from Great Britain have recently made appeals for foreign missionary endeavor in the name of better government, and of peace of commerce and of civilization.

"I have no quarrel with any of these appeals. Each is logically sound. But I care to give the cause
a new setting, this morning, new did I say? Well perhaps not new but a setting, never-the-less that is seldom
given, yet a setting that is quite important. I want to show you that we in America are indebted to the foreign missionary for our religion—that until our forefathers heard the message of Jesus Christ from the lips
of foreign missionaries they were savages; that that message has uplifted
us and made us what we are; and that therefore we should be willing,
glad, anxious to share that message
out of a sense of gratitude."

With the above as a premise the minister launched forth on the history of the origin of the Anglo-sax-
ons. When the family became large,
he said, it was divided and a branch
went to northern and eastern Europe and the other to India. The branch that went to Europe moved into the western part and thence into the British Isles where they conquered
the Britons and established the race
from which our forefathers sprang,
according to the Rev. Mr. Yocum.
The Heathen Hindu, then, he showed,
is a first cousin of the civilized Christian race.

The Rev. Yocum alluded to the times and conditions at the birth of Christ. He recalled the Chinese wore silks and satins and enjoyed their culture while our forefathers lived in huts, wandered from forest to forest
and had only the rudiments of a language.

"Darwin tells us that man evolved
from monkeys," continued the pastor,
"but many of us are quite unwilling to admit that our pregenitors were apes. But this we must admit; two thousand years ago our forefathers
were naked savages."

The Rev. Mr. Yocum recalled that the gospel was preached to them by Paul and that the Roman church be-

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

DINNER FOR WEEK-END GUEST.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.
To show you still further what is possible with paper bag cooking, I am giving the menu of the latest paper bag cooked dinner that I served to guests. And since all the guests were women, I knew that there was need for me to excel myself. This would make a good menu to serve to the week-end guest.

Menu.

Cantaloupe a la Vierge
Roast Quail Sliced Baked Ham
Celery Salted Nuts
Asparagus with Cheese Mushrooms
Spiced Apples Sweet Plum Pickle
Banana Short Cake, Foam Sauce
Claret Punch Assorted Fruit
Black Coffee

The quail were stuffed each with a fat raisin, a pinch of seasoned bread crumbs and a dot of butter, then wrapped in the thinnest possible slices of streaky bacon, tied so it could not slip, and the birds put in a well buttered bag and cooked for twenty-five minutes in an oven at first hot, but moderate throughout the last half of the cooking.

The ham I did not bake in a bag. The salted nuts of course had been bag-cooked.

Asparagus came out of cans, since fresh asparagus is not in season. After the quail were cooking, the asparagus was put, points foremost, in a thickly buttered bag, with a dusting of black pepper and a very little salt, also the strained juice of a large lemon and a lump of sweet butter the size of a walnut. It was cooked twelve minutes in moderate heat, taken up in portions and served on hot plates.

The mushrooms were fine, fat and fresh. It was joy to peel them, to nip off the stalks, wipe them delicately with a damp cloth, sprinkle very lightly with salt and drop in a thickly buttered bag along with a lump of extra butter rolled in salted flour and a gill of real cream. After sealing the bag the contents were cooked twelve minutes in a fairly hot oven.

For the banana short cake I first sliced small ripe banana. Very thin, added sugar and lemon juice to them, a bare grate of nutmeg and a tablespoonful of sherry. They stood on ice while I made up the paste. It required half a cup of well-creamed butter, one cup sugar, two well-beaten eggs, a teaspoonful of baking powder and a pinch of salt, both sifted well through a pint of flour, and a teaspoonful of vanilla. It was mixed as lightly as possible, rolled out less than half an inch thick and cut into rounds about four inches across. These were brushed over with melted butter, laid one on another and baked inside a buttered bag laid flat upon a trivet. The cooking took a little more than twelve minutes. The rounds when they came out were separated, a little butter laid upon the soft top of the bottom one, then the prepared bananas in a thick layer, after which the top was clapped on.

The foam sauce was double-flavored. Its foundation was fresh butter creamed with twice its bulk of sugar and softened by beating in gradually half a gill of boiling water. Alternately with the water, there was added hot lemon juice, the beating being fast and furious as it went in. Then a teaspoonful of vanilla was beaten through the white of an egg, until the white was as stiff as possible, and the mixture stirred lightly into the butter and sugar.

SWEETBREAD RECIPES.

By Nicolas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Escalop of Sweetbreads: Trim a sweetbread and cut in four pieces. Trim four large mushrooms and tomatoes. Roll the sweetbread in flour and put it between the mushrooms and tomatoes. Butter well your paper bag and arrange the above nicely in the middle. Place one teaspoonful of breadcrumbs on top. Cover with a slice of fat bacon or ham cut very thin. Flavor with sweet herbs as desired. Seal bag and put on broiler in hot oven. Allow twenty to twenty-five minutes.

Sweetbread (Fancy Method): Half a small onion, one slice of carrot, a little ham, fat and lean, and a little of the trimmings, all cut in small dice. A small bunch of sweet herbs and thyme, parsley and bay leaves. Put these on the bottom of the paper bag which should be well buttered. Lay your sweetbread, if desired, and around it put three or four mushrooms and two or three tomatoes, skinned and all seed removed. Add a tablespoonful of stock, Madeira or sherry, according to taste. Seal bag. Put on broiler. Allow twenty-five minutes in a hot oven.

It color and thick sauce are desired mix a quarter of a teaspoonful of arrow root with the vegetables and a little burnt sugar coloring. When you open the bag, remove the sweetbread gently. Place on dish. Remove tomatoes, mushrooms, etc., and place around it. Put the whole of the remaining contents of the bag, juice included, in a strainer and press with a wooden spoon into a clean hot basin standing in boiling water. Pour the gravy thus obtained over the sweetbread.

ENGLAND FACES AN INDUSTRIAL CRISIS

Prospect of Millions Being Out of Employment.

London, Feb. 26.—The prospect of the coal strike going into effect at midnight on Feb. 29 has not been relieved in the least. The irreconcilables among the miners everywhere declare that nothing short of the concession of the minimum wage demand by the mine owners will avert a great industrial crisis. On the other hand the men who are negotiating for peace are banking on the hope that the delegates to the colliers' conference here tomorrow will consent to notices being sent out announcing a postponement of the strike. The optimism in this respect is based chiefly on the reports of discussions among the leaders of the South Wales miners, but these hopes are balanced by skepticism in other directions.

It is figured now that in addition to the million miners and fellow workers who will be affected directly by the strike, some four million other workers in various industries will be thrown out of employment.

It is stated unofficially that many of the older miners in Northumberland and Durham are enrolling themselves as special constables in the hope of restraining possible rioting by the hot-headed younger workmen.

NAVAL BATTLE

Italians Sink Two Turkish War Vessels at Beirut.

Beirut, Feb. 26.—Martial law has been proclaimed here. Turkish troops are guarding the foreign consulates.

Rome, Feb. 26.—Admiral Faverelli, the commander of the Italian fleet which is reported to have bombarded Beirut Saturday, sends a dispatch confirming the reported destruction of a Turkish gunboat and torpedo boat.

The admiral states that he gave the Turkish vessels in the harbor from daybreak until 9 o'clock to surrender or he would attack them. He informed the governor and foreign consuls of his proposed action through the medium of a Turkish officer who boarded the Italian warship Garibaldi. When no reply was received at 9 o'clock, the admiral gave the order to attack the Turkish vessels. The Italian ships fired on the gunboat, which responded sharply, but was silenced and set on fire in twenty minutes. The Italians then went to the entrance of the harbor and torpedoed the torpedo boat, which sank in a few minutes.

Admiral Faverelli says he did not bombard the town.

Turks Threaten Reprisals.
Constantinople, Feb. 26.—There is the greatest anger here over the attack on Beirut by an Italian fleet. The government has decided to expel all Italians from Palestine except the religious bodies, which are under French protection. The public and the newspapers are clamoring for the expulsion of all Italians throughout Turkey. It is reported that fifty of the crew of the Turkish gunboat which was set on fire and burned, are missing.

Heiress Outwits Police.
Lexington, Ky., Feb. 26.—An offer of $200 reward systematically telephoned over the central west by R. T. McLin of Wolfe county for the prevention of the marriage of his sixteen-year-old daughter Mayme, heiress to one of the largest estates in eastern Kentucky, to Oliver Kash, a banker of Hazel Green, Ky., failed. The couple outwitted the police in numerous towns and were married in Cincinnati.

THE PRESIDENT DEEPLY PAINED

Roosevelt Statement Means Blasting of Friendship.

FEARS THE EFFECT OF FIGHT

To More Than One of His Friends Mr. Taft Is Said to Have Expressed the Fear That the Fight That Has Been Started Will Result in the Undoing of the Republican Party This Fall—Will Meet Situation With Dignity.

Washington, Feb. 26.—No public comment was made by President Taft and his political managers on the Roosevelt statement, but to a United States senator who talked with Mr. Taft in regard to the statement the president is quoted as having said: "I know we are right, and I am confident that we will be successful."

The statement was received by Republicans with varying opinions, but all agree that it was stronger and more to the point than they had anticipated. Colonel Roosevelt, in their opinion, had said not only that he would accept the nomination if it comes to him, but also, "I am a candidate; nominate me."

The general drift of opinion among all shades of Republicans is that the statement means a split in the Republican party which absolutely insures the election of a Democratic president unless some compromise is reached. President Taft will never consent now to yield in Roosevelt's favor unless he is absolutely outvoted in the Chicago convention, and Roosevelt's supporters declare that his statement may be taken as positive assurance that he is in the fight to the finish.

In the opinion of experienced Republican politicians this means a bitter personal campaign between the president and his predecessor, with a situation that will make it impossible for either to obtain the cordial support of the other after the nominee shall have been determined in the Chicago convention. With such a split confronting the party there will be only one hope of success, and that will be in the selection of a compromise candidate. It is the belief in Washington that the president in the event of Roosevelt's gaining the upper hand in the Chicago convention, would throw his support to some other candidate before he would see the honor conferred upon Roosevelt.

The president is said to have received Roosevelt's statement not in anger, but in great pain. The receipt of the statement meant to him the blasting forever of a friendship that had for years been warm and intimate. The president has expressed the fear to more than one of his friends that the fight that has been started will result in the undoing of the Republican party this fall. Yet the president himself has been forced into a situation where he will be obliged to wage a bitter fight, and he intends to do it with all of his strength. The president and his advisers will try to avoid personalities, although they appreciate that Roosevelt is certain to say and do things that will require a direct reply from Mr. Taft. The president feels that his back has been forced against the wall and no avenue has been left for him except a personal controversy with his predecessor and former political sponsor. He will try to meet the situation with dignity.

Opinions differed among the Republican progressives in regard to the effect of the Roosevelt statement on the political situation. Some of the progressives of the more conservative type said the statement was the biggest mistake that Roosevelt has ever made and that it, together with his Columbus speech, would drag him down to a humiliating defeat. Progressives of the more radical type, however, hailed the Roosevelt statement with favor. Republican regulars declined to comment for publication on the statement, but it is apparent they were very blue over the outlook for the Republican party. The Democrats on the other hand were jubilant over the development. All of the Democrats were certain that Roosevelt's catapulting of himself into the situation had insured the election of a Democratic president.

REFUSED TO PAY

Kingston Populace Rose in Wrath When Streetcar Fares Were Raised.

Kingston, Jamaica, Feb. 26.—The streetcar company here, which is a Montreal (Canada) concern, was put out of business completely by angry citizens who became enraged at the action of the traction people in reducing the number of rides from seven to six for a shilling. The people became greatly excited and forcibly took possession of the cars and refused to pay fares. All the police force had to be called out to restore order.

This same Chinaman last June captured the largest cash prize given at Lehigh, the Wilbur scholarship valued at $250. Chimin Chu Fuh's subject was "The Present Revolution in China."

Former State Entomologist Describes Shade Tree Enemies

The current annual report of the state entomologist, B. W. Douglass, former head of the department, has given considerable attention to the subject of shade trees in city streets. It is well known that trees in cities, he sets out, are more liable to injury from insects than in the country, but there are other influences, he said, which should not be overlooked in the section of trees for cities.

"The soil and atmospheric conditions in our cities are entirely different from the country, and as a result the city trees never possess the same vigor that characterizes the trees of the country," said Mr. Douglass. "In most cases the moisture level in large towns has been lowered often several feet by the building of sewers and the covering of the surface with buildings and pavements. The smoke of factories is no small item in the changed city conditions which the tree must endure. The gases of combustion if not actually poisonous at least serve to clog the breathing organs of the tree almost to the point of suffocation. Added to these conditions, city trees have the affliction of the professional tree trimmer, who along the curb are injured by horses hitched to or near them—this is, however, a form of damage on which the city has no monopoly.

"All of these conditions combine to render the city trees not only more subject to insects and diseases, but in some cases actually to cause their death without further assistance. During the last few years the maples in Indianapolis have been giving trouble each summer by shedding their leaves prematurely and by a peculiar withering and driving of the leaves. Most careful examination has shown that there is no insect or fungus parasite at work and we have been forced to the conclusion that the condition is one brought about by the change in the moisture content of the soil since the trees were planted. Some of the property owners protested that lack of water could not be the cause of injury on their trees because they watered them frequently. A little questioning generally brought out the fact that the watering consisted of a daily sprinkle of the surface, which really did more harm than good because it allowed of the formation of a surface crust and permitted the escape of water by capillary action. If artificial watering is to be restored to the trees should be dug around and the soil loosened to a depth of about a foot.

"Plenty of water should be used. A tree six inches in diameter should have the soil loosened around it for a distance of six feet in all directions. The roots are not immediately under the trunk, but often extend farther

ADVICE ABOUT GRIP

How to Escape its Dangerous After Effects.

With so much grip in town this winter a few words of advice will not be out of place.

First, grip is no trifle. Its after effects are often very serious.

Second, grip is particularly bad on children, old people and all who are not in the best of health.

Third, grip hangs on—takes away your energy and appetite—leaves you feeling weak and played out. That is a dangerous condition.

The best thing you can do is to build yourself up with Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil. It tones up the system and makes you strong and vigorous.

Read this letter from R. J. Lown, Oneonta, N. Y.: "I had an attack of grip last January which left me in a very badly weakened and rundown condition. Lately I began to take Vinol and I find it strictly all right. It began to help me from the very first and now I am as well as ever."

Remember, we guarantee Vinol to do just what we say—we pay back your money if it does not. F. B. Johnson & Co., Rushville, Ind.

than the spread of the branches. A tree of this size could receive several barrels of water at one time without harm. After the water has soaked in keep the surface soil loose—do not allow a crust to form. This is the same principle employed in the cultivation of corn—all operation designed to keep the moisture in the soil where the plant can use it.

"Few people realize how much effect sewers have on the moisture content of the soil in cities. I have seen a very striking illustration of the way in which sewers work in draining the soil in Indianapolis. About a year ago the city built a large sewer in College avenue, north of Fall creek. During the dry weather of the last summer (1911) this sewer never ran less than twelve inches of clear water and there are not a dozen connections on it. Such a drain on the soil moisture can not help having an ultimate effect on the growth of trees in the drained area.

"The influence of the tree trimmer in increasing the susceptibility of a tree to insect attack is often of more importance than would appear at first glance. Many trees are so weakened by wanton butchery that they become an easy prey to the various borers that seldom attack vigorous trees. While this vandalistic form of injury is preventable it is

No Cascaret User Ever Has Headache

A 10-Cent Box Will Keep Your Liver, Stomach and Bowels Clean, Pure and Fresh for Months.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passageway for a day or two—yes—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means inside cleanliness and a clear head for months. Ask any of the million of Cascaret users if they ever have headache.

surprising how many people continue to allow the tree butchers to ruin fine shade trees. The tree butcher goes on P. T. Barnum's old assumption that there is a sucker born every minute. The truth of this was well shown in Indianapolis last year when some intrepid tree doctor went about painting the trunks of shade trees with a 'dope' containing tar. According to the self-styled expert, the preparation was absorbed through the bark and then disseminated to all parts of the tree, killing any 'bugs' that might be present. When there was no evidence of any insect injury the tree doctors would suggest the use of the tar paint to open up the pores of the bark and make the tree healthy. It seems almost too absurd to believe that intellectual citizens would be caught by such a faker, but ever after a series of newspaper warnings he succeeded in painting hundreds of trees throughout the city. The deplorable thing about it all is that practically every tree that was painted died—and there appears to be no law to cover the case.

"The fact that insect eating birds are less plentiful in cities is true, but I believe that the conditions are rapidly improving. Intelligent nature study has done much to lessen the ardor of the small boy who formerly used his slingshot and airgun to such harmful advantages.

"It is probable, too, that the English sparrow has done nearly as much as the small boy to make the life of song birds miserable in the cities. I doubt, however, if the sparrow is as black as he is painted, and I sadly fear that some published opinions of him have been biased by the writers' loss of early morning sleep. I know for a fact that the English sparrow is far more of an insect eating bird than he has the credit of being. I have observed them extensively and bird for bird I know that he is a more valuable species from an entomological standpoint than in our well beloved robin. Were it not for the joy the red breast brings when he comes to us with each returning spring, I think that we could do without him very nicely. He destroys few injurious insects, eats much fruit and literary gorges himself on our soil improving fishing worms.

"One more influence against the presence of birds in cities should not go unmentioned. The peaceful (in day time house) cat is one of the worst enemies of birds we have, and should be banished.

"There remains for consideration only the influence of the city atmosphere in inducing insect injury to shade trees. The smoke laden air of our large towns has long been recognized as a baneful influence to the growth of trees, simply because the leaves are soon varnished over by a coat of soot. The leaves are the breathing organs of the tree, and as soon as the pores, through which the exchange of gases takes place, become clogged, the entire tree must suffer. In spite of smoke commissions and municipal orders it seems likely in our large cities will continue as active producers of the dense black, and if we are to have trees to the smoky parts of town, we will either have to let them take their chances, or else plant varieties that have shown themselves to be smoke resistant. There are comparatively few that have good records in this direction, and those few are not our most desirable trees in other respects, but they will grow where nothing else will."

Growing Custom Among Merchants

to Watch Forecast—May be of Commercial Worth.

How many have wondered how the government weather department at Washington got out the weather report for the day on such short notice, mailing them to representative business men of the city? If you think they are printed at Washington, D. C., and sent out from there through the mail on double quick time, you are very much mistaken.

They are printed in each city at the postoffice. Each morning about 9:30 o'clock, the postoffice gets a telegraph message through the Western Union Telegraph company from the government weather bureau, giving the weather forecast. The postmaster or his clerk is a versatile man, and must have the art of printing as one of his accomplishments, for he at once gets busy, sets up the weather forecast in type, and prints therefrom the cards which are sent out to the various business men of the city. These cards are furnished by the government and have ready printed on the reverse side the name of persons to whom they are to be sent, so that all the postmaster has to do, is to pick up his daily bunch of addressed cards furnished by the government, print thereon the weather forecast, and send them out from the local office.

About thirty business men of the city receive these forecasts. As soon as the weather forecast is received a copy is sent to the telephone office and many of the farmers who wish to know just what the weather man has dished up, and who would not get the message in time if delivered through the mail, make it a point to call up the telephone office here and have the report read to them.

It would be a great surprise to most persons to know how many business men and farmers pay strict attention to the weather forecast. A number of Rushville merchants govern their Saturday special sales for the farmers and the city people largely by the weather forecast. Farmers depend on the forecast for more than anyone else. Even the club women of Rushville have come to pay considerable attention to the weather man and what it is said he has in store for the city. They arrange to wear certain costumes often according to the weather forecast.

The farmer and gardener depends on the report at planting time and makes his arrangements, accordingly, and the farmer arranges his trips to the city according to the report.

Only one day last week a reporter chanced to be in one of the largest stores in the city, selling men's clothing and furnishings, when the mail carrier delivered the weather report. It announced the following day would be cloudy and threaten rain.

"Take out that line of overcoats in the window and fill it with 'wet' goods, umbrellas, rain coats, gloves and rain hats," said the proprietor of the store to his window decorator.

"I want that window in yet tonight," was the further instruction.

The reporter was anxious to learn the result of the change in the window decorations and entering the store at noon the next day, while it was raining, learned that the store had enjoyed a "rushing business in wet goods."

Merchants in nearly all lines take advantage of the weather report at some time to boost their trade.

TELEPHONE NUMBER, 1111.

Monday, February 26, 1912.

It may be all right to recall the judges, but if next summer they recall the umpires, the foundations of the republic will be shaken.

Mississippi passes a law fining people for giving or receiving tips. This makes it necessary to fee the officer as well as the waiter.

The ice harvest is called the best ever, but unfortunately for the Summer Girl old Sis Cow has to be consulted before we learn the price of ice cream.

If the five granddaughters of Charles Dickens emulate the spirit of their grand dad, they will take in sewing before becoming recipients of a charity fund.

No use for Secretary Knox to call on our neighbor Miss Colombia now. All his polite remarks about the weather and the Smart Set would be interrupted by her determination to talk about back yard boundary.

President Taft will go into the next campaign with considerable opposition. He will have all the trust leaders against him, for he has indicted many of them. He will be opposed by the anarchists who prostitute the good name of organized labor and place dynamite bombs, for he has indicted some of them. And he will have the solid South against him. But somehow the opinion seems to be gaining ground that he will have a much larger majority than he had last time.

The Manchus announced the other day that they were going to abdicate, but we shall not believe that they intend to support a democratic republic until they go out and spade up the garden.

One would almost be tempted to presume, after reading the Indianapolis Star Monday morning, that the announcement that Theodore Roosevelt would accept the nomination for president if tendered him, was intended for a huge surprise.

At last Robert M. LaFollette, for whom a shopmen's league was organized and for whom it appeared the State of Indiana would be turned upside down, is to speak in Indianapolis. He will address the State Teachers Association in March. It is his third attempt to get into the Hoosier State, and it should be successful since there seems to be no politics connected with the last planned speech.

It is an interesting story that of chief postoffice inspector at Washington, about the working of his department and the activities of the postoffice inspectors in the last fiscal year. According to that report the easy marks are estimated to have been parted from about $77,000,000 in the last year, which amount the get-rich-quick men whom the government caught are believed to have obtained. The plunder of those who have not been caught will never be even approximately known.

"These fraudulent schemes," said Chief Inspector Sharp, "cover a wide field, and are of endless variety—from the simplest business transaction to a gigantic project involving the sale of worthless stock in fake mining companies and fictitious institutions existing only on paper or in the minds of the promoters."

"The result of the year's work has developed the fact that these fraud manipulators are a distinct class of criminals, some moving in the highest social and business circles, but nearly all having more or less affiliations and connection with, or are advisers with schemes or enterprises of illegitimate character, in which they are known as promoters."

In connection with the avowed entrance into the race for presidential nomination of Theodore Roosevelt, we can not refrain from recalling the plight of one Senator Robert M. LaFollette. The Badger State senator is forlorn and alone. But perhaps it serves him right. He railed against the party that gave him political birth and sought to destroy its principles and its ideals. He traversed the country arousing dissension in the ranks of the Republican party by stirring up hot-headed men who would naturally rally around the standard of a demagogue without questioning his motives or what the result might be. Such men as followed him acted on the first impulse.

Now Senator LaFollette is alone and without hope of gaining the nomination. It is generally conceded that he has no show. His enemies say he received his just deserts; he was paid back in the same coin that he gave the Republican party. But consider for a moment, the reason of his loss of hold on one element of the Republican party.

Theodore Roosevelt has been acting behind the scenes in the guise of one who is biding the will of the people. He was the force back of such marionettes as Medill McCormick and Dan R. Hannah who deserted the standard of LaFollette for Roosevelt. But would it not serve Mr. Roosevelt right if such men as those who deserted LaFollette for him would leave him in the same straits.

But it is highly improbable to essay that such as that will come true. Roosevelt is a greater demagogue than LaFollette ever hoped to be, and it is for that reason that men who have not been able to control the Taft administration flocked to his standard. They see a greater opportunity in Roosevelt to beat Taft than they did in LaFollette.

Perhaps, if a man with better prospects for defeating Taft in the convention would bob up, these same self-centered men would desert Roosevelt. They are looking after their own interests and can best espouse them by following Roosevelt. True all men are interested in their own welfare, but some to a much greater degree than others, hence the methods.

Editoriales.

Some newspaper correspondent is trying to spring a straw hat famine for next season. We refuse to grow apprehensive in this regard until the weather bureau quits forecasting snow.

It's hardly fair that a man should expect the self respect of the community when he has lost all respect of himself.

Now that T. R. and Gov. Hall are out for an office we feel perfectly satisfied.

Someone has presented us with a quip about fires and matches usually being the result of careless matches. It "strikes" us that is of an old vintage but we don't pay much attention to such things.

The few cases of proposing by women so far reported indicates that it has been customary for men to do the proposing because they are the only ones who care about it anyway.

The Ladies Aid Society of the United Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. William Higgs at her home in North Sexton street tomorrow afternoon.

Connersville News: Miss Ruth Ashworth entertained the Standard Bearers of the First Methodist church Saturday afternoon at her home on Virginia avenue. She had as her guest Miss Hazel Stech of Rushville.—Miss Christine Moffett was hostess at an elegantly appointed six o'clock dinner party, at her home on Virginia avenue Thursday evening. The guests were high school girls, Misses Ethel Davis, Esther Keller, Irene Smith, Bessie Purd, Edna Johnson, Ruth Lewis, Ruth Ashworth, Ruth Baker, and Hazel Stech of Rushville.

Each member of Mrs. Donnan's study class asked a guest to the meeting Saturday afternoon to hear the lecture on the "Poetic Drama and the Plays of Edmond Rostand." Mrs. Donnan believes that the plays of Rostand, Maeterlinck and Barrie, poetic in theme and treatment, and showing none of the influence of Ibsen that has characterized all modern plays, will mark an epoch in the history of the drama. "La Princesse Lointaine" has for its theme the undaunted pursuit of an ideal; it is a truly poetic play and intensely dramatic in conception. Mrs. Donnan's sympathetic rendering of this showed that her enthusiasm for poetry is directed by an exceptionally sure insight and critical skill. In consequence of Mand Adams' coming engagement in an Indianapolis theater Mrs. Donnan gave a resume of "Chantecler" its synbolic suggestion and human symbolism of Wm. Watson, the English poet who is now lecturing in the United States, revealed something of the personality of the man. Mrs. Donnan reminded her hearers that Mr. Watson is the greatest English poet since Tennyson and has written poems that will endure with the body of English poetry.

The Phantom of the Opera

By
Gaston Leroux

Illustrations by M. G. Kettner
[Copyright 1911 by Bobbs-Merrill Co.]

As soon as the daroga recovered his strength and his wits, he sent to Count Philippe's house to inquire after the viscount's health. The answer was that the young man had not been seen and that Count Philippe was dead. His body was found on the Rue-Scribe side. The Persian remembered the requiem mass which he had heard from behind the wall of the torture-chamber, and had no doubt concerning the crime and the criminal. Knowing Erik as he did, he easily reconstructed the tragedy. Thinking that his brother had run away with Christine Daae, Philippe had dashed in pursuit of him along the Brussels Road, where he knew that everything was prepared for the elopement. Falling to find the pair, he hurried back to the opera, remembered Raoul's strange confidence about his fantastic rival and learned that the viscount had made every effort to enter the cellars of the theater and that he had disappeared, leaving his hat in the prima donna's dressing-room beside an empty pistol-case. And the count, who no longer entertained any doubt of his brother's madness, in his turn darted into that infernal underground maze. This was enough, in the Persian's eyes, to explain the discovery of Count de Chagny's corpse on the shore of the lake, where the siren, Erik's siren, kept watch.

The Persian did not hesitate. He determined to inform the police. Now the case was in the hands of an examining-magistrate called Faure, an incredulous, commonplace, superficial sort of person (I write as I think), with a mind utterly unprepared to receive a confidence of this kind. M. Faure took down the daroga's depositions and proceeded to treat him as a madman.

Despairing of ever obtaining a hearing, the Persian sat down to write. As the police did not want his evidence, perhaps the press would be glad of it; and he had just written the last line of the narrative I have quoted in the preceding chapters, when Darius announced the visit of a stranger who refused his name, who would not show his face and declared simply that he did not intend to leave the place until he had spoken to the daroga.

The Persian at once felt who his singular visitor was and ordered him to be shown in. The daroga was right. It was the ghost, it was Erik! He looked extremely weak and leaned against the wall, as though he were afraid of falling. Taking off his hat, he revealed a forehead white as wax. The rest of the horrible face was hidden by the mask.

The Persian rose to his feet as Erik entered.

"Murderer of Count Philippe, what have you done with his brother and Christine Daae?"

Erik staggered under this direct attack, kept silent for a moment, dragged himself to a chair and heaved a deep sigh. Then, speaking in short phrases and gasping for breath between the words:

"Daroga, don't talk to me about Count Philippe. He was dead . . . by the time I left my house . . . he was dead . . . when the siren sang. . . It was an . . . accident . . . a sad . . . a very sad . . . accident. He fell very awkwardly . . . but simply and naturally . . . into the lake!"

"You lie!" shouted the Persian. Erik bowed his head and said:

"I have not come here . . . to talk about Count Philippe . . . but to tell you that . . . I am going . . . to die."

"Where are Raoul de Chagny and Christine Daae?"

"I am going to die. . ."

"Raoul de Chagny and Christine Daae?"

"Of love . . . daroga . . . I am dying . . . of love. . . That is how it is. . . I loved her so! . . . And I love her still . . . daroga . . . and I am dying of love for her, I . . . I tell you! . . . If you knew how beautiful she was. . . when she let me kiss her . . . alive. . . It was the first . . . time, daroga, the first . . . time I ever kissed a woman. . . Yes, alive. . . I kissed her alive . . . and she looked as beautiful as if she had been dead!"

The Persian shook Erik by the arm. "Will you tell me if she is alive or dead?"

"Why do you shake me like that?" asked Erik, making an effort to speak more connectedly. "I tell you that I am going to die. . . Yes, I kissed her alive. . ."

"And now she is dead?"

"I tell you I kissed her just like that, on her forehead . . . and she did not draw back her forehead from my lips! . . . Oh . . . is a good girl! . . . As to her being dead, I don't think so; but it has nothing to do with me. . . No, no, she is not dead! And no one shall touch a hair of her head! She is a good, honest girl, and she saved your life, daroga, at a moment when I would not have given twopence for your Persian skin. As a matter of fact, nobody bothered about you. Why were you there with that little chap? You would have died as well as he! My word, how she entreated me for her little chap! But I told her that, as she had turned the scorpion, she had, through that very fact, and of her own free will, become engaged to me and that she did not need to have two men engaged to her, which was true enough.

"As for you, you did not exist, you had ceased to exist, I tell you, and you were going to die with the other! . . . Only, mark me, daroga, when you were yelling like the devil, because of the water. Christine came to me with her beautiful blue eyes wide open, and swore to me, as she hoped to be saved, that she consented to be my living wife! . . . Until then, in the depths of her eyes, daroga, I had always seen my dead wife; it was the first time I saw my living wife there. She was sincere, as she hoped to be saved. She would not kill herself. It was a bargain. . . Half a minute later, all the water was back in the lake; and I had a hard job with you, daroga, for upon my honor, I thought you were done for! . . . However! . . . There you were! . . . It was understood that I was to take you both up to the surface of the earth. When, at last, I cleared the Louis-Philippe room of you, I came back alone. . ."

"What have you done with the Vicomte de Chagny?" asked the Persian, interrupting him.

"Ah, you see, daroga, I couldn't carry him up like that, at once. . . He was a hostage. . . But I could not keep him in the house on the lake either, because of Christine; so I locked him up comfortably, I chained him up nicely—a whiff of the Mazenderan scent had left him as limp as a rag—in the Communists' dungeon, which is in the most deserted and remote part of the opera, below the fifth cellar, where no one ever comes, and where no one ever hears you. Then I came back to Christine. She was waiting for me. . ."

Erik here rose solemnly. Then he continued, but, as he spoke, he was overcome by all his former emotion and began to tremble like a leaf:

"Yes, she was waiting for me . . . waiting for me erect and alive, a real, living bride . . . as she hoped to be saved. . . And, when I . . . came forward, more timid than . . . a little child, she did not run away . . . no, no . . . she stayed . . . she waited for me. . . I even believe . . . daroga . . . that she put out her forehead . . . a little . . . oh, not much . . . just a little . . . like a living bride. . . And . . . and . . . I . . . kissed her! . . . I! . . . I! . . . I! . . . And she did not die! . . . Oh, how good it is, daroga, to kiss somebody on the forehead! . . . You can't tell! . . . But I! . . . I! . . . My mother, daroga, my poor, unhappy mother would never . . . let me kiss her. . . She used to run away . . . and throw me my mask! . . . Nor any other woman . . . ever, ever! . . . Ah, you can understand, my happiness was so great, I cried. And I fell at her feet crying . . . and I kissed her feet . . . her little feet . . . crying. You're crying, too, daroga . . . and she cried also . . . the angel cried!"

Erik sobbed aloud and the Persian himself could not retain his tears in the presence of that masked man, who, with his shoulders shaking and his hands clutched at his chest, was moaning with pain and love by turns.

"Poor, Unhappy Erik!"

"Yes, daroga . . . I felt her tears flow on my forehead . . . on mine, mine! . . . They were soft . . . they were sweet! . . . They trickled under my mask . . . they mingled with my tears in my eyes . . . they flowed between my lips. . . Listen, daroga, listen to what I did. . . I tore off my mask so as not to lose one of her tears . . . and she did not run away! . . . And she did not die! . . . She remained alive, weeping over me, with me. We cried together! I have tasted all the happiness the world can offer!"

And Erik fell into a chair, choking for breath.

"Ah, I am not going to die yet . . . presently I shall . . . but let me cry! . . . Listen, daroga . . . listen to this. . . While I was at her feet . . . I heard her say, 'Poor, unhappy Erik!' . . . And she took my hand! . . . I had become no more, you know, than a poor dog ready to die for her. . . I mean it, daroga! . . . I held in my hand a ring, a plain gold ring which I had given her . . . which she had lost . . . and which I had found again . . . a wedding-ring, you know. . . I slipped it into her little hand and said, 'There! Take it! . . . Take it for you . . . and him! . . . It shall be my wedding-present . . . a present from your poor, unhappy Erik. . . I know you love the boy . . . don't cry any more!' . . . She asked me, in a very soft voice, what I meant. . . Then I made her understand that, where she was concerned, I was only a poor dog, ready to die for her . . . but that she could marry the young man when she pleased, because she had cried with me and mingled her tears with mine!"

Erik's emotion was so great that he had to tell the Persian not to look at him, for he was choking and must take off his mask. The daroga went to the window and opened it. His heart was full of pity, but he took care to keep his eyes fixed on the trees in the Tulleries gardens, lest he should see the monster's face.

"I went and released the young man," Erik continued, "and told him to come with me to Christine. . . They kissed before me in the Louis-Philippe room. . . Christine had my ring. . . I made Christine swear to come back, one night, when I was dead, crossing the lake from the Rue-Scribe side, and bury me in the greatest secrecy with the gold ring, which she was to wear until that moment. . . I told her where she would find my body and what to do with it. . . Then Christine kissed me, for the first time, herself, here, on the forehead—don't look, daroga!—here, on the forehead . . . on my forehead, mine—don't look, daroga!—and they went off together. . . Christine had stopped crying. . . I alone cried. . . Daroga, daroga, if Christine keeps her promise, she will come back soon!"

The Persian asked him no questions. He was quite reassured as to the fate of Raoul Chagny and Christine Daae; no one could have doubted the word of the weeping Erik that night.

The monster resumed his mask and collected his strength to leave the daroga. He told him that, when he felt his end to be very near at hand, he would send him, in gratitude for the kindness which the Persian had shown him, that which he held dearest in the world: all Christine Daae's papers, which she had written for Raoul's benefit and left with Erik, together with a few objects belonging to her, such as a pair of gloves, a shoe-buckle and two pocket-handkerchiefs. In reply to the Persian's questions, Erik told him that the two young people, as soon as they found themselves free, had resolved to go and look for a priest in some lonely spot where they could hide their happiness and that, with this object in view, they had started from "the northern railway station of the world."

Lastly, Erik relied on the Persian, as soon as he received the promised relics and papers, to inform the young couple of his death and to advertise it in the Epoque.

That was all. The Persian saw Erik to the door of his flat, and Darius helped him down to the street. A cab was waiting for him. Erik stepped in; and the Persian, who had gone back to the window, heard him say to the driver:

"Go to the opera."

And the cab drove off into the night.

The Persian had seen the poor, unfortunate Erik for the last time. Three weeks later, the Epoque published this advertisement:

"Erik is dead."

STUDENTS NOT ABOVE WORKING THEIR WAY

Self Help the Rule at State University.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 26.—More than 100 out of about 800 men students at Indiana university are making all or a part of their expenses during the school year. This means that about 12½ per cent of the students at the big state school are self-supporting. This takes into consideration only those who are working during the school year.

Counting those who make their own expenses by working during the summer or by teaching, probably more than half are making their own way to get a higher education. A great many earn their board during the school year by waiting on table at their boarding clubs. Another popular job is that of firing furnaces for room rent. This term about seventy-five are waiting table and about thirty are firing furnaces for their room rent.

The number of things that students do to earn money is almost legion, but probably the most of them either wait on tables or fire furnaces. Other profitable things are clerking on Saturdays, pressing clothes, typewriting, working laundry routes and agencies of all kinds. The library assistants are also making a good part of their expenses. During the summer most of the students work in their home towns, while many of them remain in Bloomington and take employment in the stone quarries, thus deriving sufficient revenue to give their fall term expenses a big boost.

AN APT STUDENT

After Two Weeks' Study of Law This Prisoner Branches Out.

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 26.—After studying law in his cell two weeks, Horace Greeley Herold, under sentence to serve five years for attempting to kidnap his infant daughter, dismissed all his legal advisers and took the case into his own hands.

He mailed to the state supreme court a petition for a writ of habeas corpus that bristles with legal technicalities cited to show that he is unlawfully deprived of his liberty. Lawyers are amazed by legal knowledge shown in the document.

Ospina is Now Out.

Washington, Feb. 26.—The Colombian incident was closed when the state department received a letter from the Colombian minister, Pedro Nel Ospina, saying he had turned the legation affairs over to Senor Don Roberto MacDouall, first secretary, who will act as charge d'affaires. Similar word was received from American Minister Dubois at Bogota, which in addition said that the American legation there had been officially informed of Minister Ospina's recall.

RAISE TIMBER; WILL PAY GOOD

Secretary of State Board of Forestry Advises Farmers to Look to Woodlots.

KEEP STOCK OUT OF THEM

Trees of Low Commercial Value Should be Removed—Maple Shade Too Dense.

The woodlot should be regarded as a crop of trees, writes Charles Deam, secretary of the State Board of Forestry in a bulletin. As such, is the woodlot a paying investment. Is it growing the most valuable kinds of trees and as many, to the acre as it should?

NOSE STOPPED UP WITH CATARRH

A Common Sense Treatment For Colds and Catarrh, Gives Instant Relief.

No matter how miserable you are with catarrh or a cold in the head, nose stopped up, throat sore, eyes running, dull pain in the head, dry cough, fever, foul breath, Ely's Cream Balm will give you instant relief.

It gets right at the root of the trouble, cleanses, heats and strengthens the raw, sore membranes, stops the nasty discharge so that you are not constantly blowing the nose and spitting. In a few minutes after applied you can just feel it doing its work of clearing the head, the pain and soreness are relieved, the breathing becomes natural and the stuffed up feeling is gone. This cleansing, healing, antiseptic Balm contains no mercury, cocaine or other harmful drugs. It is easy to apply, pleasant to use, and never fails to give relief, even in the worst cases.

Never neglect a cold, and don't suffer the miseries of catarrh nor disgust your friends with your hacking, spitting and foul breath. Get a 50-cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and start the treatment at once. You will find that it will be the best investment you ever made.

An investigation of the woodlot conditions throughout the state show that the woodlots are not producing one-half as much as they should. There are over $4,000,000 acres of woodlands in Indiana, growing half of a crop, which is equivalent to 2,000,000 acres of idle land. Can the state afford this? It is a dependable fact that the woodlots are being neglected and owners should begin at once to improve them. The cost is small and the way easy.

The first thing to be done is to fence it and then keep all kinds of stock out of it. Browsing animals destroy the second growth which is essential to a productive woodlot. Then the open spaces in the woodlot, should be planted. This may be done by using nuts or seedlings. The quality of the stand be gradually improved. When timber or fuel is needed, trees of a low commercial value should be cut, and replaced with more valuable species. When trees are cut they should be felled so as to do as little damage as possible to the standing trees; and when hauling as few trees as possible should be cut in making roads. It is best to maintain a few roads in the woods as outlets, which will also serve as a fire lanes.

The principal trees to be removed are the Beech, Maple, Black Oaks, Dogwoods, Ironwood Sassafras and Water Elm. These have a low commercial value and the Beech and Maples produce such a dense shade that nothing will grow under them. Three Ash or ellow Poplarmill mature on the same area that is required by two Beech or Maple and in addition will permit a vigorous second growth which will take their place when they are cut. The trees that grow the most rapidly and have the highest commercial value and for these reasons are recommended for planting, are the White Ash, Yellow Poplar and Black Walnut. In addition to these the White, Burr and Red Oaks, Hickories and Linn may be used.

The State Board of Forestry has issued two publications which give detailed descriptions of woodlot conditions and complete instructions for their improvement. These valuable books are free and may be obtained by writing the Board at Indianapolis.

NO LONGER ANY DOUBT ABOUT IT

The Colonel Is An Avowed Candidate for Nomination.

HE TELLS THE GOVERNORS SO

Answering the Plain Request of a Conference of Seven Governors Who Recently Met in Chicago, Roosevelt Frankly Admits That He Is Once More in the Running and Would Accept Nomination if Tendered.

New York, Feb. 26.—Col. Roosevelt tells the seven governors who asked him a fortnight ago to be frank about it as soon as convenient, "I will accept the nomination for president if it is tendered to me." This is the letter, dated on Saturday last:

"Gentlemen: I deeply appreciate your letter, and I realize to the full the heavy responsibility it puts upon me, expressing as it does the carefully considered convictions of the men elected by popular vote to stand as the heads of government in their several states. "I absolutely agree with you that this matter is not one to be decided with any reference to the personal preferences or interests of any man, but purely from the standpoint of the interests of the people as a whole. I will accept the nomination for president if it is tendered to me, and I will adhere to this decision until the convention has expressed its preference. One of the chief principles for which I have stood and for which I now stand and which I have always endeavored and shall always endeavor to reduce to action, is the genuine rule of the people; and therefore I hope that so far as possible the people may be given the chance, through direct primaries, to express their preference as to who shall be the nominee of the Republican presidential convention.

"Very truly yours,
"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Letter of the Governors.

The above was in answer to the following letter to the colonel:

Chicago, Feb. 10, 1912.—We, the undersigned Republican governors, assembled for the purpose of considering what will best insure the continuation of the Republican party as a useful agency of good government, declare it our belief after a careful investigation of the facts, that a large majority of the Republican voters of the country favor your nomination and a large majority of the people favor your election, as the next president of the United States.

We believe that your candidacy will insure success in the next campaign. We believe that your presence, as no other man represents, those principles and policies upon which we must appeal for a majority of the votes of the American people, and which, in our opinion, are necessary for the happiness and prosperity of the country.

We believe that in view of this public demand you should soon declare whether, if the nomination for the presidency come to you unsolicited and unsought, you will accept it.

In submitting this request we are not considering your personal interests. We do not regard it as proper to consider either the interests or the preference of any man as regards the nomination or the presidency. We are expressing our sincere belief and best judgment as to what is demanded of you in the interests of the people as a whole. And we feel that you would be unresponsive to a plain public duty if you should decline to accept the nomination, coming as the voluntary expression of the wishes of a majority of the Republicans of the United States, through the action of their delegates in the next national convention. This letter is signed by Governors Glasscock of West Virginia, Aldrich of Nebraska, Bass of New Hampshire, Carey of Wyoming, Osborn of Michigan, Stubbs of Kansas, and Hadley of Missouri.

Colonel Roosevelt is as chipper as a lark. He seems much relieved now that the "news" is out, and confidence is written all over his countenance and was expressed in every action when he talked with the newspaper men. When asked if he was going to take the stump in an effort to win the nomination, he replied: "I will not attempt to cross that bridge until I come to it."

William Alexander, grand duke of Luxembourg, is dead at Luxembourg. He was born on April 22, 1852.

JUAREZ THE CENTER OF REBEL ACTIVITY

Another Battle Promised When Reinforcements Arrive.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 27.—The rebels camped at Baucha, twelve miles south, are only about 700 in number, and Inez Salazar, their leader, has not yet reached their camp. Juarez will not be attacked for several hours, at least. No attack will be made, they declared, until he comes up and brings more men.

The rebel chieftain in command declares that they will first demand the surrender of Juarez and that if the surrender is not made, then they mean to attack. They have cannon with them, he says, and will plant the cannon northwest of Juarez and fire down the river parallel with El Paso, just as Madero did, so that none of the shots will fall in El Paso.

The leader, Emilio Campa, declared that he believed Madero would resign once the Vasquista army takes Juarez. He also declared that he believed General Orozco would soon join the Vasquistas, that the position of Orozco was becoming more compromised every day. Campa declared that the army was fighting for Vasquez Gomez and wanted nobody else. The leader declares that it is his intention to take Juarez and hold it as a port of entry and then march southward to Chihuahua, Torreon and eventually Mexico City, if their revolution does not triumph before they reach the national capital. He declares that the men in arms south of here in Chihuahua, in the Laguna district and elsewhere, will join them in their march.

STORM BOUND

Governor Marshall Held Prisoner on Stalled Train Out West.

Kansas City, Feb. 26.—With five to seven-foot drifts around Dalhart, Tex., holding all Rock Island trains at stations in New Mexico, the worst storm in the history of the Panhandle country is raging up through Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska. All trains are tied up. Among the passengers in the stalled trains west are several prominent persons, including Governor Marshall of Indiana, who is returning from a visit in New Mexico.

Wouldn't Take Any Chances.

Shanghai, Feb. 26.—A wholesale slaughter of Tibetans is reported. The Chinese troops, it was said, fearful that the contemplated return of the grand lama would cause a general uprising against Chinese rule, massacred all of the Tibetans near the frontier.

INDIANA'S NAME IS "IN THE POT"

State Well Represented in Rivers and Harbors Bill.

THE MAUMEE CANAL PROJECT

Congressional Action Proposes to Provide For the Initial Survey of an Artificial Waterway Designed to Join Lake Erie and Lake Michigan as a Short Cut For the Growing Commerce of the Great Lakes.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 26.—It was found when the rivers and harbors appropriation bill, carrying a total of $29,965,010, was completed, that Indiana's name was "in the pot." The bill contains a provision for a survey for "an artificial waterway extending from Lake Erie, at or near Toledo, to the southerly end of Lake Michigan via the Maumee river and the city of Fort Wayne, or other practicable route." No specific amount is appropriated for this northern Indiana survey, and the expense will be borne out of a lump appropriation of $300,000 to cover all the waterways ordered in the bill.

Representative Cline, who was elated over the granting of a survey, telegraphed to the local committee here: "Canal included among surveys in rivers and harbors bill. Congressman Boehne represented us on committee."

Mr. Boehne is a member of the rivers and harbors committee.

The bill appropriates $10,000 for harbor improvement at Michigan City and $25,000 to improve the harbor at Indiana Harbor. It carries a total appropriation of $5,400,000 for the Ohio river, the benefits of which will be shared generally throughout southern Indiana.

STILL A MYSTERY

Women Hope by Reward to Find the Slayer of Dr. Knabe.

Indianapolis, Feb. 26.—Women physicians of Indianapolis will ask the city council to renew its reward for the apprehension and conviction of the murderer or murderers of the late Dr. Helene Knabe. A petition also will be laid before Governor Marshall, asking him to co-operate with the city in the offering of a substantial reward.

This action has been decided on by the special committee of the Gamma chapter of the Nu Sigma Phi sorority, the organization of women physicians. The council will be visited tonight by the committee and the petition will be laid before it. An effort will be made to arrange a meeting with the governor some time during the week. Dr. Lillian Crockett-Lowder, chairman of the reward committee, asserts that plans for raising a reward among physicians and business men are going forward rapidly and that by the end of the week $1,000 will have been subscribed.

SHOT IN MOUTH

Student Was Going to Celebrate De Pauw's Oratorical Victory.

Greencastle, Ind., Feb. 26.—Owing to the accidental discharge of a revolver in the hardware store of John Cook, Forrest Williamson, a student in De Pauw university, lies seriously injured in his room. Williamson had accompanied Hugh Price, another student, to the hardware store to see about the purchase of a revolver with which to celebrate the victory of De Pauw in the oratorical contest. Cook was showing them a .32-caliber revolver when the gun was accidentally discharged and the bullet struck Williamson squarely in the mouth.

He Realized His Position.

Newcastle, Ind., Feb. 26.—Jesse Freel was turned over to the Michigan City authorities by Sheriff Kirk. His parents ate with him at his last meal in the jail. Freel broke down and cried bitterly as he was being carried away on an interurban car on the trip that will be his last from this city to any place. Only then did he seem to realize the seriousness of his crime. Prior to leaving he played several selections on his guitar and divided his belongings among relatives and friends.

Injured Man Recovers Damages.

Washington, Ind., Feb. 26.—George Hofmann, member and traveling representative of an Indianapolis wholesale house, was awarded a verdict for $4,500 damages against the Evansville & Terre Haute railroad in the Daviess circuit court. Hofmann's demand was for $10,000. He was a passenger on a streetcar that was struck by a cut of E. & T. H. railroad cars in Vincennes Aug. 7, 1910.

Wayne County Dogs Muzzled.

Richmond, Ind., Feb. 26.—This entire county is to be placed under a quarantine against hydrophobia, and every dog in Wayne county has been ordered muzzled. For several months this city and different townships in the county have had mad dog scares. During the next sixty days all dogs running at large unmuzzled will be shot by the sheriff, police or town marshals.

came a center of missionary activity and sent out its representatives to the country round about. The Rev. Mr. Yocum reviewed the missionary work of the civilized world during the few centuries after the birth of Christ and recalled that in 594 Augustine and a company of Missionaries were sent to England by Gregory to teach the savage forefather of the American race.

The minister told of the progress of the missionaries in England, for soon the whole land was won to Christianity and it became a gospel light. "That was only 1300 years ago—a mere day in the life of nations," continued the Rev. Mr. Yocum, "Yet a marvelous transformation has been

ACT QUICKLY

Delay Has Been Dangerous in Rushville.

Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in time of danger. Backache is kidney danger. Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly. Plenty of evidence to prove this. Harrison Levi, 931 North Sexton street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I have nothing but praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, for they have been of great benefit to me. I was subject to attacks of kidney trouble and no doubt the complaint was brought on by the hardships I endured while in the war. I had severe pains in my back and the kidney secretions were irregular in passage. This weakness disturbed my rest and I know that something must be done. Three years ago Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and procuring a box at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store I began their use. In a short time the backache and kidney weakness disappeared and I was in much better health. I cannot say that I am completely cured, but I know that I can rely on Doan's Kidney Pills for relief. I have previously given a public statement in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills and I gladly endorse them again."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
